An inventory of adult education offerings in high school districts in Pennsylvania produced a 75.8% return of questionnaires (449 districts) and provided information on the courses conducted by school districts by subject categories together with the number of school districts offering each course. Following are comments on the more important or unique aspects of the activities summarized into--program activities, finances, staffing, and participation. The appendix is a list of school districts which participated in the study. (nl)

PREFACE

For some time adult educators in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have talked of the desirability of compiling an inventory of continuing education activities conducted by institutions of higher learning and secondary school districts within the Commonwealth.

Late in 1968, with a grant from the Department of Public Instruction, such an inventory was undertaken by an informal and unofficial but interested group composed of representatives from the Pennsylvania Association for Adult Education, The Department of Public Instruction, and The Pennsylvania State University. The survey was developed, conducted, and summarized by the Department of Planning Studies, The Pennsylvania State University.

The inventory was conducted in two phases: (1) activities offered by institutions of higher learning, and (2) activities offered by secondary school districts. This report presents the results of the secondary school phase only. A separate report of continuing education activities in institutions of higher learning is also available.

The group which originated the survey idea consisted of Dr. Benjamin W. Barkas, (Pennsylvania Association for Adult Education); Dr. John W. Struck, Director, Bureau of Vocational, Technical, and Continuing Education; Alfred S. Holt, Chief, Division of Continuing Education; Dr. George W. Hoffman and Dr. Oscar E. Thompson, Bureau of State Colleges and Universities; Dr. Louis W. Bender, Director, Bureau of Community Colleges, (all of the Department of Public Instruction); and Floyd B. Fischer, Director of Continuing Education, (The Pennsylvania State University). This group was assisted by Jack Sittman, Division of Continuing Education; James P. Murphy and Dr. Robert Shephard, Bureau of Community Colleges, (all of the Department of Public Instruction); and Dr. H. LeRoy Marlow, Head, Department of Planning Studies, (The Pennsylvania State University).

It is the hope of those associated with the study that such an inventory may be conducted annually, leading to increased cooperation among school districts and eliminating the duplication of effort in continuing education activities in Pennsylvania.

Project Director

BACKGROUND AND PROCEDURE

Problem

Within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the secondary school organizations are serving educational needs of the adult population of Pennsylvania through many continuing education activities. Presently each institution develops the activities it believes are needed, with no complete means of determining the availability of similar activities. As a result, there is much duplication of effort in the preparation and presentation of continuing education programs. There has been no central source or complete inventory of such state wide activities.

Objective

The objectives of this project were to plan, design, and conduct an inventory to determine the location and type of continuing education activities conducted between July 1, 1967, and June 30, 1968. Such information should be of current interest and value as school districts develop plans for continuing education activities and seek possible areas of coordinating such programs with other school districts in Pennsylvania. It is hoped, as a result of this project, that a basic inventory of continuing education activities has been established and can be maintained on an annual basis as one means of meeting the needs of educators in the rapidly expanding field of adult education.

Procedures

Every secondary school district in Pennsylvania was invited to participate in this survey. Five hundred and ninety two (592) questionnaires were distributed; 449 were returned, for a percentage of 75.8. Of the 449 school districts responding, 285 (63.5%) conducted educational activities. Table 1 explains the distribution of the questionnaires by school districts.

QUESTIONNAIRE DISTRIBUTION AND RETURN

Secondary School Districts	Number Sent	Number Returned	Percent of Return

District Superintendents	303	245	80.8
Vocational & Technical Directors	47	19	40.4
Total	592	449	75.8

In order to provide as uniform a response as possible, the following definitions were recommended for use in completing the questionnaire:

Continuing Education

Includes short term organized programs conducted for credit or non-credit by the secondary institution designed to provide the participants with an educational experience that will aid in their personal development, improvement of knowledge and skill as a worker, parent, or citizen.

Registration

One enrollment in a single educational activity. Registrations refer only to the number of enrollees; they do not refer to the individual persons.

SURVEY RESULTS

Responses from 449 school districts indicated a total registration of 156,384 adults. Table 2 indicates the number and percent of school districts conducting continuing education activities.

GENERAL COMMENTS

In addition to the specific information supplied on the survey questionnaire, 133 school districts offered general comments. These include explanation of local conditions, specific projects they hoped to establish, or problems encountered. The comments listed here indicate the more important or unique aspects of the continuing education activities and may be summarized into four general categories — (1) Program Activities, (2) Finances, (3) Staffing, and (4) Participation.

Program Activities

Continuing Education activities reflect a number of diverse programs to meet many needs. Comments included:

"We conduct a survey each year to determine the desires of our adult population. We offer any course where the demand is eight or more."

"Many additional courses are desirable here but there is a tendency to place regular school subjects (kindergarten through 12th grade) first. We are under some pressure to support a community college."

"Our Adult Education program is sponsored and conducted by a lay committee of interested citizens. A school administrator serves on the advisory board and acts as a liaison person. The school district's only responsibility in the program is to offer the use of its facilities."

"We also have an adult evening school in our community. However, they are controlled by a board of directors of their own and are organized as a non-profit independent organization."

"We have conducted such classes for many years and have done so hoping to serve a need or needs as they are made known. We have conducted many classes in the past which we are not continuing now and which I have not checked above."

"This continuing education program should be developed to a greater degree in meeting the needs of the adult world."

"Beginning January 8, 1969, we will begin an adult high school program for those interested in obtaining a secondary diploma issued by the State Department of Public Instruction. The program is sponsored by The Pennsylvania State University, Allegheny Educational Broadcasting Company and PSEA. We have 31 enrolled."

"In the physical education field we have been offering an extensive summer program and a physical fitness course."

Finances

The problem of securing funds was referred to frequently in such statements as:

"Our program has been highly successful mainly because of community and school board support."

"We are curtailed in extension education programs because of lack of funds. It is recommended that the State reimburse for such programs."

"The Department of Public Instruction should subsidize all forms of adult education which in turn would bring forth a great selection of courses and better teaching."

"We offer only six weeks since State Aid was withdrawn for night school."

"Teacher recruitment figure of $4.00 per hour should be removed. This makes teachers difficult to get when the federal evening programs pay twice as much. Local boards are not willing to expend monies on programs which are not reimbursed."

Staffing

Securing qualified teachers and competent leadership posed additional problems:

"We offer any course for which there is a sufficient demand (12 enrollees) and for which we can provide a teacher. Our courses are all non-credit."

"We would be happy to have courses but lack many things including outstanding leadership."

"This area has a great need for Adult Basic Education. The home economics and vocational programs are difficult to have because regular teachers are unwilling to take extra work each term."

"Our activities are too limited. Persons interested are limited and teachers are difficult to recruit. We would like to offer a lot more as our schools are not used enough."

Participation

There was some concern over the lack of attendance, as noted in the following comments, but this concern seems to be balanced by the number of people who were enthusiastic with the response to their programs:

"Adult evening classes were offered but not given during the 1968-69 term because of lack of applicants."

"Our problem and the nationwide problem is attendance. Improvement is necessary."

"This year our 'average' registration (68-69) is low. With no tuition charge for city residents we usually have a much larger number of interested people. I personally feel (and have been told) the 'light' response is due to the civil disorders and nonsense that occurred after a football game last fall during our registration week."

"While 116 people registered for the ten adult classes offered, only five classes were able to start with enough students. These classes involved 88 people. The rest were canceled."

"In our first year's operation we had insufficient enrollment in some areas to justify the course. Basically the interest and participation were excellent."

"We feel that this program is providing a real service to our 'blue collar' communities. We want to expand and provide additional courses."

"From meager beginnings of four offerings five years ago, — Adult Education has grown to over 40 offerings to date."

"We are offering 32 programs for Adult Education on a non-credit basis."

"This is our first attempt at Adult Education and it was a complete success. This will become a continuing program of our district."
